Did you hear us yell? Yes, that was the Seniors. Last Wednesday the Senior class of the American Fork High School went over to Wadley's on a grape bust. After returning they all went to Rova Beck's home and had light refreshments, followed by music and lots of laughing.

QUEEN AND MAIDS

WILL BE SELECTED
Provo, Sept. 24—The county commissioners have decided to select the Utah county queen for the state fair from Provo and a maid of honor from each of the following towns: American Fork and Alpine in the north end of Utah county, and Spanish Fork and Santaquin in the south end of the county.

The selections will be made under the supervision of the commissioner in each district, who will probably enlist the co-operation of the Commercial club or other organization in each of the towns; it is expected the selections will be made by Saturday.

ELECTS COUNTY CHAIRMAN

At a meeting of the Republican county committee and Republican nominees, held in Provo, last Saturday, Eph Homer and Don W. Conove were again unanimously re-elected chairman and secretary respectively. An assessment of 10 per cent of the first year's salary was levied on the nominees for campaign expenses. A motion requiring the endorsements of the precinct chairman and the county chairman of candidates for deputy ships in county offices was carried.

Some Interesting Facts

Penmanship, Horticulture, Zoology, Physiology, General Science, Soils and Soil Fertility, Trigonometry, Public Speaking and Debate, Male Chorus and Opera, and are giving Physics in lieu of Chemistry to third and fourth year students.

In order that students may not be deprived of following up their musical talents, or obliged to go elsewhere in order to apply music credits towards graduation, arrangements have been made in the circular for students to major in lines of their own choice, and the High School has arranged to accept credit for special music if taken from teachers with proper credentials and requirements.

We are making these detailed explanations that the parents may know exactly what a broad, varied yet substantial array of subjects is being offered right here at home, almost within shade of their own dwellings. We also expect to get, deserve, and hold the support and hearty co-operation of every parent who has a son or a daughter of High School age who is not in school. We shall not be satisfied until we are assured that we are not only teaching facts to those who are interested enough in school to come of their own volition, but until we can enthrall and inspire those who are not interested to spend their cold winter days with us, and their long, lonesome winter nights under our direction with their parents. The teachers feel that they are only half teaching if they are not inspiring a love for education and worthy ideals.

May we ask the parents to investigate thoroughly the advantages to be had at home before thinking of sending their children out from under the parental roof and influence, thinking to get a better education.

There is no influence on earth so wholesome as that of a good father and mother in family circle, and this fact should always be remembered, and not permit the longing for their child's educational welfare to overshadow it. It is not more education that we need, it is more of the right kind of education.

Let us not be too prompt to take up the suggestion of our boy or girl that they cannot get the kind of course they want at home, and are trying to persuade us that they will have to go away in order to get anything worth learning. It may be very possible that a little investigation on the part of the parents, or a three minute talk over the telephone with the principal, will reveal the fact that the student was over anxious to experience the novelty of getting away from home, and he only thought that he could not get the course he wanted. The fact is that every course offered in the beginning courses of any standard High School is offered in our home school. It is true that in certain lines of industrial work we are not able to offer third and fourth year work, but only for the reason that those classes do not remain large enough to justify a teacher's full time. Occasionally there is a boy or girl who desires to put his entire time along one specialized branch of work. We, of course, are not specializing in the strictest sense in the High School, but neither is any other High School in the United States. Such instruction is given only in special schools or by correspondence courses, both of which come extremely high in cost.

Now just a word with respect to our outside schools. The big schools like the University of Utah, the B. Y. University at Provo, and the A. C. at Logan, are not out looking for preparatory or High School students. They fully expect the local High Schools to take care of them. Those schools are out after college students, and are extremely anxious to get those who have made good all the way through the High School. It is true that the B. Y. U. very courteously extends an invitation to all students who do not expect to attend school elsewhere, to enter its doors; that is extended as a privilege, but in every community where a High School is established, the big educators of the state expect the communities to be loyal to their own institutions. That has been preached in our own community. They always urge that the students attend school somewhere and if there be any who have neglected their earlier opportunities and would feel embarrassed to enter the lower classes along with younger students, the great uplifting influence of their instructors is still open to every individual who has the least desire to improve, regardless of former scholastic attainment.

Taking into consideration all these factors and the extremely small cost at home, it appears that our place as local citizens is in our local High School, even if we should be obliged to sacrifice one subject. Such a small sacrifice can never put a serious blot on our educational process.

If there chance to be any who are holding back because they have no the $5.00 to advance, don't let the top you. We know that the crop have not been marketed yet, and the your word is good.

AMERICAN FORK HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

This week, at the local High School many students from Alpine have registered. A wagon has been provided for carrying them back and forth. It will leave Alpine each day at 1 o'clock, returning promptly at four in the afternoon.

The Senior class is now beginning to show up both in number and form. Up until this week, it looked as though the Senior class would be a small one, but now those who are expecting to graduate are registering and the prospects look good for a full-fledged class.

Preparations are making ready for a school party in which the board will entertain all teachers and students.

Everybody up at the High School is getting ready and putting on his war paint for the event.

Five sections in type-writing have now been organized and about forty students are taking advantage of the courses offered.

The students are now thinking seriously on the question of officers for the student body association. The classes, too, are making preparations for organizing, and the strongest students are being groomed for the various offices. Already the Juniors have called a meeting for this purpose.

The Senior class of the American Fork High School held a meeting last Tuesday to choose their class officers for the coming school year. The officers chosen were: President, Carl Jackson; Vice President, Mary Blackhurst; Secretary and Treasurer, Millie Adams; Editor, Myrtle Wootton; Yell Master, Reva Beck. This was the first class of the High School to organize. The colors, navy blue and white, were selected to represent the Senior class of the American Fork High School.

The Junior class of the High School held their first meeting Tuesday. A large representation of the class was present, and the following officers were elected: President, Davis Chipman; Vice President, Jane Dickerson; Secretary and Treasurer, Ruby Wootton; Yell Master, Hugh Wing; Executive Committee, Dena Shafter, Clara Hunter, Haden Hollindrake.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE COURSES FREE

The Utah Agricultural College, in carrying out its policy in popularization of education, is offering the farm men and women their choice of pursuing over forty different courses by correspondence free of charge. This means that a man or woman in any part of the state may enroll for any one of these forty different courses and pursue the study of such a course under the direction of instructors at the college absolutely without any charge. Nor do they stop with such inducement, but go farther offering to lend books and material to any one who does not desire to buy his own texts.

This is without doubt the most modern popular movement in education that has been introduced into any part of the west. The purpose is wholly for the betterment of the life on the farms, and for the popularization of the form of education for which such schools as the State College stand.

For the benefit of those who might desire to pursue such courses they have been divided into three different parts, i. e., Courses for the housewife, courses for the general farmer, and courses for others. Under these three heads the following special courses have been arranged:

Free Courses for the Housewife.
Household Bacteriology.
Home Sanitation.
Principles of Cooking.
Canning, Preserving and Pickling.
Butter Making.
Plain Sewing.
Care and Training of Children.
The Home Library.
Home Care of the Sick.
Service of Food and Table Etiquette.
Home Construction and Decoration.
Household Management.
The Home Laundry.

Free Courses for the Farmer.
Dry Farming.
Irrigation.
Wheat Growing.
Alfalfa Culture.
Corn Culture.
Potato Culture.
Sugar Beet Culture.
The Soil.
Farm Management.
Farm Grasses.
Meadow and Pastures.
Field Crops.
Weeds.
Farm Management.
Sheep Management.
Hog Management.
Cattle Management.
Beef Cattle Management.
Poultry Management.
Feeding of Farm Animals.
Breeding of Farm Animals.
First Aid to Injured or Diseased Animals.

Locke Building.
Farm Motors.
Farm Building 1.
Insects.
Udd.
Farm Sanitation.
Farm Machinery.
Draining Farm Lands.

A special circular has been prepared explaining the work more in detail and will be sent free to anyone addressing the Correspondence Department of the U. A. C. Logan, Utah.

Deeds, Not Words
Utah County People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, for Utah County kidney sufferers, have made their reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of American Fork people.

Mrs. John O. Adams, 52 Merchant Street, American Fork, Utah, says: "I suffered a great deal from pains through my back and kidneys. In the morning when I got up, I was so lame and sore across my back that I could hardly drag myself about. It took Doan's Kidney Pills but a short time to rid me of these pains and aches. Three boxes made a cure and the cure has lasted for years. You may continue using the endorsement I have given Doan's Kidney Pills before."

Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Adams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Brigham Young University, Provo, will begin its 39th Academic Year, Thursday, October 8th. Thursday will be devoted to registration of students. Class work will commence Friday morning, October 9th. Catalogues will be furnished an application.
